Caribbean Association of Women Judges

Inaugural Conference and Project Launch

THE LAW AND THE PROTECTION OF CHILDREN

“Save Our Children”

March 27th - 29th 2014

Hyatt Regency Trinidad, Port of Spain, Trinidad and Tobago
It is my distinct pleasure, on the behalf of the Steering Committee, to welcome you to Trinidad and Tobago, the southernmost islands of the Caribbean and home for the Launch and Inaugural Conference of the Caribbean Association of Women Judges which is organised around the theme “The Law and the Protection of Children.”

We meet in Port of Spain, the capital city of this twin island Republic, blessed with the unique culture that only a diverse population such as ours can offer. We hope that attendees can sample our cuisine which is a mix of Indian, Chinese, Creole and Lebanese as well as experience our exciting world renowned steelband music.

Our mandate, as judges, must assume the flexibility and responsiveness necessary to meet the changing face of our social environments. We must continue to instil confidence in the judicial system and properly manage the trust reposed in us as we dispense justice in an equitable manner making the doors of the Court accessible to all. As such the objects of the CAWJ include:

i. Promoting women’s access to the courts and advancing women’s rights to equal justice;

ii. Eliminating gender bias from judicial systems in the Caribbean;

The organization will also:

i. Engage in, fund, sponsor and/or promote research and study programmes that contribute to the understanding and resolution of legal issues facing women, and encourage cooperation and collaboration among women judges of all nations;
ii. Sensitize the public and the members of the Judiciary about human rights law and the role of the Judiciary in implementing laws which equally promote and protect the rights of all women.

iii. Engage in, fund, sponsor or promote the research, analysis, compilation, publication and/or distribution of educational materials to engender increased understanding and competence among women judges.

I must reiterate, however, that the most diligent application of the law alone is insufficient to treat with the critical social issues that plague our society and as such an additional kind of intervention is necessary. The problems include violence both within and without the home; and the abuse and neglect of our women and children. Magistrates and Judges see firsthand the breakdown of the family and the deleterious effect thereof. We must enter the domain and bring change to our social environment such as our office will allow. The CAWJ will, as part of delivery process engage in advocacy, mentorship and embark on our first project “Family Support Network and Violence Reduction Programme.”

In 2013 there were more than 3,000 reports of violence against women and children in Trinidad and Tobago. The legislative agendas, albeit laudable, fail to address certain systemic issues and fundamental pillars necessary to ensure a more robust and timely intervention programme designed to protect these vulnerable groups. It is this lacuna, the extended silence, that we seek to speak to in the proposed project in order to give legs to our verbal commitment to protecting our children and towards ending violence against women. This model will include properly structured and efficiently functioning Counsellors. This proactive approach is aimed at minimising the exposure of our children and women to physical and sexual violence.
WELCOME ADDRESS:

We recognise that the component parts of this concept may not be novel, but as a group we seek to build on initiatives such as the Bail Boys Project – an undertaking devised and executed by His Excellency in his former office of High Court Judge; and to bring together the various resources to develop a robust system of intervention. On the second day of this Conference, we will be preparing fifty (50) parents from female headed homes and blended families to begin the process of setting up these FSN sites in the various communities.

His Excellency, the President of the Republic of Trinidad and Tobago will host a cocktail reception for us on the 28th March to ensure that you have a most memorable time in our islands. We are grateful for his consistent support of our initiative.

We wish to acknowledge The Honourable Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Trinidad and Tobago for his unswerving support for our organisation, its ideals and the projects which we propose to undertake in service to our community and territories. Our Chief Justice is graciously hosting our Thursday night reception.

We thank the Caribbean Court of Justice who have rendered yeoman service in helping us bring this Conference to a reality.

We publicly express our thanks to UNICEF and UN Women who, without hesitation, lent critical financial support to this venture. We look forward to engaging with these organisations in the future as we embark on our future projects, training and advocacy.

I take this opportunity to express heartfelt thanks to the members of the Steering Committee for their unstinting support and dedicated service that was necessary in making the dream of the formation of the CAWJ and this Launch a reality. The Committee was supported by various committees which have worked tirelessly but enthusiastically to make a successful Conference and Launch.
WELCOME ADDRESS:

We extend a very special welcome to the Co-Directors for Latin America and the Caribbean region; Ms. Joan Winship of the International Association of Women Judges; our sister judges from the United States of America and the various Caribbean territories;

Our theme – The Law and the Protection of Children is one that you will find both timely and thought provoking. It is our sincere hope that our programme, presented by outstanding jurists, social activists and participants will encourage us, refresh us and provoke us all to action on behalf of our children. We consider the Launch and Conference as judicial contributions to public service, affirming our commitment to improving the lives of others as we strive to improve ourselves as judges.

We thank you for participating in this signal event and we look forward to your continued support as we work to achieve diverse judicial leadership, fairness and equality in our own courts and equal justice for women, children and the disadvantaged in our society.
The Honourable Mme. Justice Désirée Bernard, a citizen of Guyana, read law at the University of London, graduating with the LLB degree in 1963. Qualifying as a solicitor in 1964, Mme Justice Bernard engaged in private practice in the High Court of the Supreme Court of Guyana from 1965 to 1980. During that period, she was appointed a Magistrate (1970), Commissioner of Oaths & Notary Public (1976) and was admitted to the English Roll of Solicitors (1977). She established a number of professional “firsts”, being elected first and only female President of the Organisation of Commonwealth Caribbean Bar Associations (OCCBA) in 1976; appointed the first female High Court Judge of the Supreme Court of Guyana (1980); the first female Justice of Appeal (1992); the first female Chief Justice of Guyana and in the Commonwealth Caribbean (1996); and the first female Chancellor of the Judiciary of Guyana and in the Commonwealth Caribbean (2001).

Mme. Justice Bernard took the oath of office as a Judge of the Caribbean Court of Justice at the Court’s Inauguration Ceremony, on Saturday 16 April 2005. She received an award from the Organisation of Commonwealth Caribbean Bar Associations for distinguished service in the legal profession in 2001. For her exceptional contribution to the improvement of the status of women and to the development and practice of law, Mme. Justice Bernard has received several awards, among them being: the Cacique Crown of Honour, and the Order of Roraima, Guyana’s 3rd and 2nd highest national awards respectively. In addition in November 2007, the University of the West Indies conferred on her a honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

THE HONOURABLE MR. JUSTICE ADRIAN SAUNDERS was called to the Bar of St. Vincent & the Grenadines in 1977. He remained in private practice until 1996 when he was appointed as a Judge of the Eastern Caribbean Supreme Court (ECSC). In 2003, he was confirmed as a Justice of Appeal of the ESCS. One year later he was appointed to act as Chief Justice of that Court. In 2005 Mr. Justice Saunders was sworn in as a Judge of the Caribbean Court of Justice.

During the period of his tenure as a Judge in the Eastern Caribbean, Mr. Justice Saunders was deeply involved in judicial education and judicial reform issues. He chaired the Committee established to introduce court connected mediation in the Eastern Caribbean. As Chairman of the Ethics Committee of the ECSC he presided over the production of a code of ethics for judges of the Eastern Caribbean. He also served as Chairman of the Judicial Education Institute of the ECSC from 2001 to 2004. He is a faculty member of the Halifax-based Commonwealth Judicial Education Institute and Chairman of the Caribbean Association of Judicial Officers (CAJO).

THE HONOURABLE MME. JUSTICE ZAILA MCCALLA, O.J.
CHIEF JUSTICE OF JAMAICA

In 2007, Mrs. Justice Zaila McCalla became the first woman to be appointed Chief Justice of Jamaica.

A graduate of the University of the West Indies and the Norman Manley Law School, Justice McCalla was admitted to the Bar in 1976. She has served as a Clerk of Courts, Crown Counsel and Assistant Director of Public Prosecutions prior to her appointment as Resident Magistrate in 1985. She has also served as Master-in-Chambers at the Supreme Court. Mrs. Justice McCalla is a past President of the Association of Resident Magistrates and has participated in numerous seminars and conferences locally and internationally.

Currently, the Honourable Chief Justice chairs several committees including the Judicial Service Commission, the Supreme Court Rules Committee, the Archives Advisory Committee, the Queen's Counsel Committee among others. She is Keeper of the Records of the Island Records Office.
Mrs. Beverly Harry-Emmanuel is first a wife and mother who is also passionate about start-ups, creating successful, resilient organizations through people. Prior to assuming her current position as Executive Director of the Community Mediation Programme she held the position of Technical Adviser with the United Nations Development Programme and prior to that, Technical Officer with the International Labour Organization (ILO), all of which involved executing and managing new projects. Before joining the ILO she spent fifteen years in Human Resource Management and Consulting. She is trained in several disciplines including mediation, management, sociology, human resource management, business administration and project management.

During her tenure as Executive Director, Community Mediation Programme, the Community Mediation Services Division was established with the supporting management and regulatory structures. The division has also been actively developing and executing preventative programmes, which include Anger Management, Leadership Skills, Conflict Management, Parenting Skills, Parental Support Groups and Peer Mediation Training. Mrs. Harry-Emmanuel believes that this comprehensive approach will over time lead to a sustainable beneficial re-engineering of our response to conflict and crisis as individuals and as a society.

The Honourable Justice Roxanne George was appointed Puisne Judge, Guyana, with effect from January 1, 2005. Prior to this she served for fourteen years with the Chambers of the Director of Public Prosecutions, Guyana, with a final post as Acting Director of Public Prosecutions for two years. She holds an LLB (Hons) University of the West Indies (1988) and Certificate of Legal Education, Hugh Wooding Law School (HWLS) (1990); Best Graduating Student HWLS 1989-1990; Best Graduating Guyanese student HWLS 1990 and a Master of Studies in International Human Rights Law from Oxford University. While at HWLS Justice George was awarded Best Graduating Student and Best Graduating Guyanese Student. She is a member of the Guyana Association of Women Lawyers, (GAWL) serving as president from 2001 – 2003; Co-editor of the Law and You Booklet series published by GAWL. Researcher, consultant and served as draftperson during the national Constitutional Reform process. Justice George is also a former lecturer at the University of Guyana. Her main interests are issues affecting women, children and their development.
Felicia Robinson is a child protection specialist with a history of contributing to the Caribbean region and internationally in the area of social development. Since 2004, she has worked with several International Development Agencies in a consultative capacity, on assignments across dispersed and challenging environments towards improving the framework, quality and delivery of services to families and children. She has a versatile academic background in social work, social and public policy (MA) and the field of Law (LLB, LLM, Legislative Drafting). At present, she is a lecturer at the University of the West Indies, Cave Hill Campus in the Department of Government, Sociology and Social Work. In addition to her current engagement in research in the area of climate change, policy and law, she continues to be involved in various regional initiatives which seek to address the problem of child abuse, to strengthen and accelerate reforms in juvenile justice, and to build the capacity of practitioners in the field of child protection.

Rhoda Reddock is Professor of Gender, Social Change and Development and currently Deputy Principal of the University of the West Indies, St. Augustine Campus. Former head of the Centre (now Institute) for Gender and Development Studies at the University of the West Indies, St. Augustine campus she is the recipient of numerous national, regional and international awards including the Triennial CARICOM Award for Women 2002 and an honorary doctorate from the University of the Western Cape, South Africa, 2012. She is project director of the action-research project and campaign Break the Silence: End Child Sexual Abuse which developed the Blue Teddy symbol. Professor Reddock has numerous publications including eight books (2 award-winning), three monographs, four special journal issues and over sixty peer-reviewed articles and book chapters. She has also been active in the local and regional women’s movement.
Dr. Leighton M. Jackson has a broad area of expertise which includes Family Law on which he wrote his doctoral thesis and still has a limited appellate Family Law practice in both New York and Jamaica. He has lectured law since 1979.

He is admitted to the Bar in Jamaica, the United States Federal Courts and the Courts of New York. He was the Principal Law Clerk to the Deputy Chief Administrative Judge in New York Office of Court Administration and served as Senior Appellate Court Attorney in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York. Dr. Jackson is at present acting as Registrar of the Caribbean Court of Justice, while still continuing his teaching in the Faculty of Law.

Since 2005, Chissey Mueller has led and expanded International Organization for Migration’s (IOM) efforts to build the technical capacity of Caribbean partners to better manage migration related issues, including human trafficking. Ms. Mueller provides customized technical advice and tools so that partners are able to assist vulnerable migrants from the point of identification and immediate care through voluntary return and reintegration. She has trained more than 2,000 persons in 10 countries, participated in over 50 media interviews to raise awareness, and advises national task forces and coalitions that carry forth the initiatives in prevention, protection, and prosecution to counter human trafficking.

Prior to IOM, she worked for several years in public, private, and not-for-profit sectors in the United States and Japan. Ms. Mueller received an MAIA in International Politics and Security from American University (Washington, DC), and an MAIA in International Cooperation and Development from Ritsumeikan University (Kyoto, Japan).
Stephanie Daly - C.M.T.T., S.C is the Chairman of the Children’s Authority. She has been a practising attorney for over 30 years and is a certified mediator and mediation trainer in family and civil matters.

Mrs. Daly chaired the Family Court Committee which set up the Family Court Pilot Project which opened in 2004 and includes in-house mediation. She continues to serve on the Court’s Monitoring Committee and was also involved in the development of the Mediation Act. She has a special interest in issues affecting families and has published several works on the status of women, child and family law identifying inequalities in the legislation, and areas for improvement, also making information about the legal environment more understandable. In 2011 she was awarded the Chaconia Medal (Gold) for long and meritorious service to the Republic of Trinidad and Tobago in the sphere of Law.

Nancy Flatters was appointed to the Bench of the Provincial Court of Alberta, Calgary Family and Youth Court in 1996. Prior to her appointment, she practiced law in Calgary, Alberta and from January 1996 to her appointment as a Q.C. She has taught as a sessional instructor in the Faculty of Law at the University of Calgary and now teaches dispute resolution, mediation, case-flow and case management, domestic violence, child advocacy, settlement skills, mentoring, amongst other topics, to the judiciary and professionals both locally and internationally. She has designed a judicial settlement and case-flow management system for her Court to make the Court more accessible to the community it serves. She has a commitment to building bridges in all aspects of her work and teaching.

She is President-elect of the Association for Conflict Resolution, a member of the Board of the Alberta Chapter of the Association of Family and Conciliation Courts, the Equality and Diversity Committee of the Canadian Association of Provincial Court Judges, and recently retired from the Board of the Canadian Chapter of the International Association of Women Judges and the Alberta Law Reform Institute.
Ms. Brown has been professionally involved in research, social development and community organization projects since 1969. Her specific area of focus is poverty eradication, consumer affairs and promoting gender equity. Dr. Douglas has lectured on domestic violence prevention and intervention issues at the convening of the Judicial Education Institute (JEI) in St. Lucia, Guyana and Trinidad and Tobago. Dr. Douglas also works closely with the Family Court of Trinidad and Tobago in the development and delivery of programmes for perpetrators and victims of domestic violence and co-parenting programmes for separated or divorced parents.

Dr. Douglas is most familiar to the national community through her weekly radio programme and as the Director of Douglas and Associates Limited, a clinical and consulting agency providing psychological services to children, youth, adults, couples, families and organizations. Dr. Douglas is also a past President of the Trinidad and Tobago Association of Psychologists, and founder of the Trinidad and Tobago Association of Christian Counselors.
Gaietry Pargass is an Attorney-at-Law. She has worked, over many years, with issues related to the rights of women and children. Her work spans research, advocacy, teaching and the development of policy and legislation. She has worked with various governments in the region as well as with several inter-governmental agencies including UN Women, UNECLAC, UNDP, UNICEF and the ILO. In this regard, she has authored and co-authored several reports and research studies including a 2011 Trinidad study on the access to justice of women and girls who are victims of gender-based violence. She was involved in the development of the 1991 Domestic Violence Act of Trinidad and Tobago and, more recently, has been working on the legislative agenda of the Ministry of Gender, Youth and Child Development as this relates to the care and protection of children. She is currently the chair of the Advisory Council for the National Strategic Plan for Child Development.
